

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed is an assembly of supplying a detergent in a washing machine, by which a detergent box can be correctly installed in the washing machine. The present invention includes a receiving part provided in an upper space of the washing machine to have an opening at a front side, a detergent box detachably received in the receiving part via the opening, a drawer panel installed at a front side of the detergent box to form an exterior of the washing machine, and a location correction means for correction a reception location of the detergent box.